Schedule

Warning statement

"Warning

This is an offer of stapled securities (being shares in Goodman Limited, units in the Goodman Industrial Trust, and CHESS depository interests in respect of shares in Goodman Logistics (HK) Limited) (together, GMG)). The stapled securities give you a stake in the ownership of GMG. You may receive a return if dividends are paid.

If any of Goodman Limited, Goodman Industrial Trust, Goodman Logistics (HK) Limited runs into financial difficulties or is wound up, you will be paid only after all creditors have been paid. You may lose some or all of your investment.

New Zealand law normally requires people who offer financial products to give information to investors before they invest. This information is designed to help investors to make an informed decision.

The usual rules do not apply to this offer because it is made under an exemption granted by the Financial Markets Authority that allows Goodman Limited, Goodman Industrial Trust and Goodman Logistics (HK) Limited to offer the stapled securities to eligible employees. As a result, you may not be given all the information usually required. You will also have fewer other legal protections for this investment.

Ask questions, read all documents carefully, and seek independent financial advice before committing yourself.

The stapled securities are quoted on the ASX. This means you may be able to sell them on the ASX if there are interested buyers. You may get less than you invested. The price will depend on the demand for the stapled securities."

Statement of reasons

This notice comes into force on 21 July 2017, and is revoked on the close of 20 July 2022.

This notice exempts Goodman Limited, Goodman Industrial Trust (GIT), and Goodman Logistics (HK) Limited (together, the issuers) from compliance with the disclosure requirements of Part 3 of the Financial Markets Conduct Act 2013 (Act). This notice also exempts GIT from compliance with the governance requirements for managed investment schemes under Part 4 of the Act.

The exemptions apply only to offers (offer) of stapled securities (each consisting of a share in Goodman Limited, a unit in GIT, and a CHESS depositary interest in respect of a share in Goodman Logistics (HK) Limited (stapled securities)) under the Goodman Group Long Term Incentive Plan (Australian LTIP) which are made by the issuers to certain eligible persons, including employees or directors of the issuers and employees or directors of the issuers' subsidiaries in New Zealand (employees).

The exemptions are subject to certain conditions requiring an offer to be consistent, as far as practicable, with the requirements of the exclusion relating to employee share purchase schemes in clause 8 of Schedule 1 of the Act (the Schedule 1 exclusion) and with clauses 10 to 12 of Schedule 8 of the Financial Markets Conduct Regulations 2014 (which relate to the Schedule 1 exclusion).

The Financial Markets Authority (FMA), after satisfying itself as to the matters set out in section 557 of that Act, considers it appropriate to grant the exemptions because—

- the return on the stapled securities is linked to the performance of the issuers. Therefore, the Australian LTIP encourages employees' involvement in the performance of Goodman Limited and its subsidiaries, in a manner similar to that of an employee share purchase scheme. However, due to the composite nature of the stapled securities, which consist of both equity securities and managed investment products, the issuers are unable to rely on the Schedule 1 exclusion:
- the exemption therefore promotes innovation and flexibility in the financial markets by allowing employees to participate in an offer which is in substance similar to an employee share scheme and which will be offered on a similar basis as offers made in reliance on the Schedule 1 exclusion:
- the conditions to the exemptions require employees to be provided access to the same kinds of information as would be required under the Schedule 1 exclusion. As the stapled securities are listed on the Australian Securities Exchange (ASX), the issuers are subject to ASX requirements and to Australian securities laws, with the market value and material issues relating to the stapled securities publicly available and accessible to employees. In these circumstances, the FMA is satisfied that employees will have access to sufficient and appropriate information for them to make an informed investment decision in relation to the offer and requiring the issuer to comply with the disclosure requirements of Part 3 of the Act is unnecessary:
- GIT is regulated under Australian law, and is subject to Australian laws and regulatory requirements relating to governance of managed investment trusts. Therefore, sufficient and appropriate governance arrangements and protections for investors are already in place under Australian requirements, and requiring GIT to comply with the governance requirements in Part 4 of the Act in relation to the offer is unnecessary:
- as such, the FMA is satisfied that the granting of the exemptions is desirable in order to promote the purposes of the Act, specifically by avoiding unnecessary compliance costs and by promoting innovation and flexibility in financial markets:
- in circumstances where the exemptions are limited to the offers of stapled securities made by the issuers to employees in connection with the Australian LTIP, and their key impact is to provide the Australian LTIP with equivalent treatment to that which applies to employee share schemes under the Act, the FMA is satisfied that the exemptions are not broader than is reasonably necessary to address the matters that gave rise to them.
